Democrats Hold Advantage For Next Congress

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democrats carried a numerical advantage into the showdown battle with the Republicans today for control of the next Congress.

Victory predictions came from both sides as the voters began making their choices after listening to weeks of campaign oratory.

The outcome was bound to be influenced by the presidential race and, conversely, to have an important bearing on the success of the next president's administration.

At stake in today's balloting are 34 of the 96 Senate seats and 432 of the 435 House seats. Maine elected a Republican senator and three GOP House members on Sept. 8.

Depends On Landslide

The House, where the Democrats now outnumber the Republicans 230 to 200, has rarely run counter to the presidential tide. Capitol authorities said that only twice—in 1848 and 1876—has an incoming president been faced by a House controlled by another party.

The Senate presents a different picture. Numerous Republican senators conceded privately that it probably would take an Eisenhower landslide for them to capture the Senate.

The Democrats now hold 49 Senate seats—the bare minimum necessary for control. But only 14 of their seats are on the block and five of these are in the Democratic south.

The Republicans have 46 seats, not counting Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, who "resigned" from the Republican party and threw his support behind Stevenson in the presidential race.

GOP House In 1946
With Morse's defection, the Republicans needed to pick up at least three seats to be assured of control of the next Senate and at the same time had to risk 21 they now hold.

One of the 21 has already been filled with the election of Republican Gov. Frederick G. Payne of Maine to succeed Sen. Owen Brewster, and Sen. William F. Knowland of California was assured of re-election by winning the Democratic as well as the Republican nomination.

The Republicans won control of both the House and the Senate in 1946 for the first time since

Eisenhower Puts Peace At Head Of His List Of Aims

By RELMAN MORIN

NEW YORK (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower returned to New York today to await the decision of a nation.

He made a last great appeal last night for a mandate from the American people to take his "crusade" into the White House. Peace, he said, is "the dearest treasure in the sight of free men," and he placed it at the head of his objectives if he is elected.

This was his last major campaign speech.

The oratorical guns that have been crashing and booming across the land for many months were silent now. The political sword-play was finished. The campaign was over.

Picture of Confidence
Eisenhower went home to sit out the biggest day of his life since that heavy hour, in June 1944, when, having said, "Let'er rip," there was nothing to do but wait. Then, it was the great invasion; today it was the end of a struggle for the greatest office on earth. His wife—famous now as "my Mamie"—was beside him.

The Republican nominee was a picture of confidence.

He seemed more at ease, more sure of himself, in his last appearances last night in Boston than he has at any time since the campaign began. In these closing efforts—the speech at the Boston Garden Auditorium and a 60-minute television show—he gave no indication of strain or doubt.

Workers Unworried
He took the train from Boston shortly after midnight for New York with plans to vote early this morning.

Tonight, he will go to his headquarters in a downtown hotel to watch the vote totals as they roll in.

Eisenhower's campaign leaders also carried an air of quiet confidence. They said they believe he is "in."

But the atmosphere around headquarters appeared to speak with a more convincing voice than any of the conventional election-eve pronouncements. The people closest to Eisenhower looked relaxed, quiet.

Duke Of Windsor Builds Hideout

By GODFREY ANDERSON

GIP-SUR-VETTE, France (AP)—The Duke of Windsor, in shirt-sleeves and a pair of business-like ski boots, is working with blue-overalled French workmen from this village to prepare the new country home he will occupy next spring.

Every fine day he drives out 25 miles from Paris in his green and brown Buick station wagon to work on the 200-year-old millhouse which he is converting into a weekend hideout for himself and the duchess when in France.

The duchess seldom comes with him but she is known to be taking a keen interest in the plans for furnishing the house when that stage is reached.

Hatless and with a pipe in his mouth, the duke plods around the piles of planks and mounds of up-turned earth in the mill grounds. From time to time he steps in to give orders in French to the masons and the gardeners. When help is needed, he is ready to lend a hand himself. Two dogs keep close to his heels.

The duke has rented the old watermill and pink-tiled house which stands besides it from French painter Adrien Drian. He is having extensive alterations made to its half-dozen rooms. Changes are being made in the studio-windowed salon and library. Modern bathrooms are being installed. Central heating will add warmth to log fires in the outside chimney places.

Outside, flowers are being planted in freshly dug beds where a huge weeping willow overhangs a tiny bubbling stream.

Flood Of 55 Million Votes Anticipated In U. S. Today

Reds Stopped Cold By Dug-In Allies On Heartbreak Ridge

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

SEOUL (AP)—Dug-in Allied soldiers today hurled back predawn Red assaults on the Korean Eastern and Central Fronts.

North Korean Communists launched six attacks in the Heartbreak Ridge sector. Each was stopped cold despite unusually heavy Red artillery and mortar fire.

Chinese Reds on the Central Front stormed all night long at South Korean positions atop bloody Sniper Ridge. The ROKS beat back the final assault at dawn.

Down Near Zero
The U. S. Eighth Army said Sniper and nearby Triangle Hill were quieter today than at any time since the Allies launched their Central Front attack Oct. 14.

The mercury dipped to a bone-chilling 1 degree above zero.

American soldiers huddled around their radios for the latest news of the U. S. presidential elections. Most interested listener was Maj. John Eisenhower, son of the Republican candidate.

A battalion of North Koreans—about 750 men—powered the biggest Red attack on the mountaintous Eastern Front. The Reds slammed straight at Heartbreak Ridge.

Other Attacks Fail

Allied infantrymen, fighting from trenches and bunkers, stopped the assault cold in a three-hour battle. The defenders estimated they killed or wounded more than 100 Red Koreans.

Five other attacks, up to 175 men in size, hit elsewhere along a four-mile sector.

On the center, about 300 Chinese Reds tried to scramble to the top of Sniper Ridge during the night. None got closer than 100 yards.

Forget Hate, Unite Behind Winner, Says Governor Stevenson

By DON WHITEHEAD

HALF DAY, Ill. (AP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson came to this little village to cast his vote today after an election-eve speech in which he declared the Korean problem must be "freshly reviewed by fresh minds."

The Democratic candidate's final speech from Chicago was in its total effect, a call to forget the bitterness and the strife and the name-calling of the presidential campaign and to unite behind the winner—whichever he might be.

He appealed to the people to close their ears to the "cowardly voices of hate and fear and suspicion" and to believe and trust in each other.

Truman Shares Spot
And he said: "If your decision is Gen. Eisenhower and the Republican party, I shall ask everyone who voted for me to accept the verdict with traditional American sportsmanship. If you select me, I shall ask the same of the Republicans, and I shall ask our Lord to make me an instrument of his peace."

Stevenson's last-minute appeal came in a nation-wide television and radio program in which he shared the spotlight with President Truman, Vice President Barkley and his running mate, Sen. John J. Sparkman of Alabama.

In his references to Korea, Stevenson said: "The Korean War and the miserable stalemate there must be freshly reviewed by fresh minds. Solution, settlement and an armistice there is the first order of public business. But Korea is only one aspect of the Communist conspiracy against the free. And this is no time to hesitate in doubt and confusion about the dangerous world we live in x x x."

Files To Springfield
The Democratic candidate rested last night at the home of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Hermon Dunlop Smith of Lake Forest, about 25 miles north of Chicago on Lake Michigan. And then his schedule called for him to drive to Half Day, a small crossroads community in Lake County and near Stevenson's home in nearby Libertyville.

After he votes in the Village Hall, he will attend a brief reception sponsored by friends in Vernon

Ballot Guessers Try 2 Systems

By The Associated Press

Two systems—neither unconditionally guaranteed—are available to election night guessers seeking to project early returns into the final outcome of the presidential race.

One involves a running check of the states with hefty electoral votes—New York with 45; California and Pennsylvania, 32 each; Illinois, 27; Ohio, 25; Texas, 24; Michigan, 20. Their total weight falls only 61 short of the 266 electoral votes needed for victory.

Another way is to figure that history is likely to repeat itself and concentrate on "compass pointer" states which have generally turned up on the winner's side in past elections.

Missouri, Montana and Idaho have picked the winner consistently in the last 12 presidential elections, starting with Theodore Roosevelt in 1904. Arizona, New Mexico and Nevada have been "right" since 1912. Illinois missed only once in the last 15 elections, Maryland once in the past 10, Ohio once in the past 14.

Polls opened at 7 a. m. They will close at 8 p. m., but anyone in line by that time will be allowed to vote.

The long state ballot, running from U. S. senator down to coroner, and including all major state and county offices in between, may make the counting slow. But the national ticket shouldn't take long.

Three proposed constitutional amendments may be tossed aside for hours while election workers figure out first who won Michigan's 20 electoral votes for president and whether Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams won an unprecedented third term.

In election-eve statements both Republican and Democratic party leaders expressed confidence of victory. None estimated their margins in figures, and most pollsters conceded it would be a tight squeeze either way.

At 11 a. m. big industrial Detroit reported a total vote of 216,080. This compared to 132,696 in 1948, last presidential year.

Poll Closings Run From 4 To 9 P. M.

By The Associated Press

Polls in today's elections open as early as 6 a. m., EST, in New York and close as late as 11 p. m., EST, in the three West Coast states.

The latest the polls are open in the East is 9 p. m., EST, in New York and parts of Rhode Island. Earliest poll closings are also in parts of Rhode Island, at 4 p. m.

BOGUS GENERAL—James Ralph Atkins, 28, of Toronto, Canada, was arrested by FBI agents charging that he came to New York dressed as a U. S. Air Force Brigadier General, obtained an Air Force staff car and went on a gay spree of night-spots while living at two fashionable midtown hotels. (NEA Telephoto)

Outcome In Doubt As Nation Selects Its 33rd President

By JACK BELL

Associated Press Staff Writer

A record-breaking cascade of ballots is forecast today as Americans choose either Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower or Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson as the 33rd man to become their president.

As the final crescendo of a furious campaign died away only a few hours before the sunrise-opening of some polls on the East Coast, the outcome of a see-saw battle between entrenched Democrats and office-hungry Republicans was in doubt.

World Watching
While the world looked on in mixed hope and apprehension, some 55 million of the 75,759,785 eligible voters were expected to turn out in generally mild weather to decide basically either, with the Republicans, that "it's time for a change" or, with the Democrats, that they "never had it so good."

The Republican call for a change involved not only an end to what the GOP labeled as communism, corruption and inflation at home, but a review of the handling of the Korean War. This included a dramatic promise of a personal visit by Eisenhower to Korea—probably his strongest late-campaign bid for votes.

Cleanup Promised
Against this, Stevenson pounded hard on the prosperity issue, painting a dark picture of possible depression if the Republicans win. He promised a cleanup in Washington, "merciless" prosecution of Communists found in government, flayed the GOP "Old Guard" as "isolationist" and said Eisenhower held out "false hopes" of a Korean settlement.

The two presidential candidates ended their campaigns shortly before midnight with nation-wide radio-TV broadcasts. Eisenhower from Boston and Stevenson from Chicago.

Stevenson said he believed the Democratic party should be continued in office because "it is the party of no one, because it is the party of everyone." He said he did not believe the country's economic well-being could be safely entrusted to the Republican party—"the party of fear, inaction, boom and bust."

Pledged To Peace
Eisenhower pledged to work for "a just and lasting peace secured by the strength of the free world." He said he is dedicated to "one supreme cause"—the winning of world peace in a struggle against "the menace of Godless Communism."

Today the Republican nominee was back in New York to cast his vote and await the outcome.

President Truman, speaking from Kansas City on the same hookup with Stevenson last night, said today's voting may decide "whether we achieve lasting peace or be led into a third world war."

The first town to count its vote, normally Republican Sharon, N.H., gave Eisenhower 32 and Stevenson 14. Four years ago Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Republican, received 21 of Sharon's votes to four for Truman and two for Henry Wallace, the Progressive party candidate.

Not Too Confident
As usual, both sides publicly professed confidence of victory for tickets that would carry Sen. Richard M. Nixon of California into office as vice president with Eisenhower and would make Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama Stevenson's vice president.

Stephen A. Mitchell, democratic national chairman, came up with the prediction in a statement that Stevenson would win with 418 of the 531 electoral votes. A total of 266 is needed for election.

Arthur Summerfield, Republican national chairman, forecast the election of Eisenhower, Nixon and a Republican Congress. He added that there is evidence of a "land-

Final Gallup Poll Says Ike Has Edge

NEW YORK (AP)—The Gallup Poll, last of the nation's major political pulse-takers to make known its final 1952 presidential election forecast, gives Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower a slight lead but says Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson was gaining so steadily he might be ahead by today.

The Gallup Poll, which was made available for use by non-subscribers today, even saw the possibility of a 50-50 split of the popular vote.

A survey of three other polls, made available yesterday, also showed them inclined to think Eisenhower, the Republican presidential candidate, was ahead in the race. But none of the three flatly picked him to defeat his Democratic opponent, Stevenson.

The three are the Crossley Poll, the Elmo Roper Poll and the Samuel Lubell Analysis made for the Scripps-Howard Newspapers.

Eisenhower was given 47 per cent of this year's probable vote in the latest Gallup Poll. Forty per cent was allotted Stevenson, and 13 per cent was listed as undecided.

In 1948, the Gallup Poll gave 44.5 per cent to President Truman and 49.5 per cent to his Republican opponent, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

Cigarette Poll Won By Gen. Eisenhower

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower won the presidential "cigarette poll."

Results were announced by the Louisville Tobacco Blending Corp., which conducted the poll. Sales of cigarettes labeled "I Like Ike" and "Stevenson for President" ended in mid-October and final results are Eisenhower, 26,731,740; Stevenson, 23,531,800.

Burglar Steals Kisses—John Burtis, 17, (left) appears in court in Mineola, New York, after his arrest by police, who said that Burtis confessed he stole into the bedroom of two women while their husbands were away, kissed them, and promised not to rob them because they were "too beautiful." ## 14 Delta Growers Exhibiting Spuds In U. P. Show Delta county is represented at the U. P. Potato Show, which begins today in Crystal Falls, by 14 individual exhibitors and a group of 12 growers showing their potatoes as county unit.

Most of the exhibitors were division winners in the county potato show held here Oct. 23.

Enter In 4 Divisions
The local growers and the division they will enter in U. P. competition follow:

Certified seed — Pat DeBacker of Rock; Frank Falkies, Rock; and Clarence Sundquist, Escanaba, Rte. 1.

32 Tuber samples — Jule Cafmeyer, Cornell; Fenlon Brothers, Rapid River, Rte. 1; Adolph Lippens, Girard Van Damme and Van Damme Brothers, all of Rock; and Vernon Wick of Cornell.

32 Tuber samples (4-H) — John Knaus, Cornell; Bill Williamson and Lloyd Williamson of Rapid River, Rte. 1; and David and William Woodard of Cornell.

Exhibiting in the county unit display of tablestock samples will be twelve farmers who have achieved high yields in the fall harvest. The showing of a representative tablestock sample is necessary in order to compete in the growers' contest for tablestock potato farmers, according to Farm Agent J. L. Heirman.

County Queen Competes
Delta county's potato queen, Everell Miron of Cornell, will attend the show on Wednesday and Thursday to compete in the contest in which the U. P. Potato Queen will be selected. The queen will be crowned during the Thursday night activities.

In the Delta county potato show a new unofficial record in potato yields was set by Frank Falkies of Cornell. His yield of 1,083 bushels per acre is believed to be a new state mark. He will show his potatoes in the certified seed division, in which he was awarded the first place in the county show.

A large number of growers will visit the U. P. show on Thursday, the final day, Heirman expects.

She is survived by her husband, Jacob, two sons, Walter of Battle Creek and Franklin of Escanaba, a daughter, Mrs. Clarence (Anna) Anderson of Escanaba and a sister, Mrs. Mary Grell, Hamburg. She also leaves three grandchildren.

Gun Safety Program Scheduled At EHS

A program on gun safety will be presented by officers of the Michigan Conservation department at Escanaba Senior High School Nov. 11.

Paul Challancin, of Marquette, regional supervisor of the education division of the conservation department, is in charge of arrangements.

A conservation officer from Escanaba district headquarters and four EHS students will participate in the program. It is planned that students will enact a skit while Challancin narrates.

A simulated forest scene with woods and fence will be assembled on the school stage for the program. Proper handling of a gun, what to do and what not to do, will be explained.

Conservation officers have pointed out that since Oct. 1 this year, a large percentage of personal injuries have affected young people under 18 years of age. They stress that a hunter should not shoot until he knows for certain what his target is, and that persons under 17 must have a proper guardian with them while hunting.

The program, which begins at 10:45 a. m., will last about an hour.

Man Dies From Drinking Of Car Radiator Alcohol

Henry Kihn, 63, a lumberjack employed in land clearing in the reconstruction of M-35 south of Escanaba, died early this morning of internal complications brought about by drinking of car radiator alcohol.

Coroner Otto S. Hult of Gladstone termed his death a "suicide" after being called to the scene of the death, a farm house used by a group of road workers 13 miles south of the city.

Sheriff's department officials went to the farmhouse at about 4 a. m. today after receiving a call from one of the road workers that Kihn was apparently in a convulsion. Officers were not able to determine the permanent address of the dead man. He carried a social security card from the Munising office of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

The dead man was born in Finland and one survivor, a daughter, is believed to be living in Detroit.

The body was taken to the Degnan Funeral Home where funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

Vote Is Heavy To Noon Today

The morning hours brought an outpouring of voters today in Escanaba and Gladstone as citizens heeded warnings to vote early and avoid the rush during the evening.

In Escanaba 2,995 voters had cast their ballots to noon, representing more than one-third of the city's 8,350 registered voters, it was reported by City Clerk George Harvey.

The city clerk said it was a very heavy vote to be cast before noon in any election and the total vote for the day is expected to set a new record.

In Gladstone there were over 900 votes cast by noon of the city's 2,800 total registered voters.

Polls at all precincts in Gladstone, Escanaba and the townships will continue open until 8 p. m. and all voters waiting in line at that hour will be permitted to cast ballots.

Briefly Told

Escanaba Commandery—A regular meeting of Escanaba Commandery 47 and Ladies' Auxiliary will be held at the Masonic Temple Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

Knights of Columbus—A meeting of the Knights of Columbus Council will be held Wednesday at 8 p. m. at the club house. Entertainment and refreshments will follow the meeting.

Mink Meeting—The U. P. Mink Breeders Association will meet Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the Ford River town hall. Representatives of the fur auctioning companies will be present.

City Truck Damaged—A gravel truck owned by the city of Escanaba was damaged yesterday afternoon when a steering tie rod broke on a curve near Hyde and the truck ran off the road, hitting a tree. Floyd C. Benson, the driver, was uninjured.

Fire Damages Car—An automobile owned by Robert Dubord was damaged by fire at 9:15 p. m. yesterday where it was parked near the Harnischfeger plant on the Danforth Road. The blaze started a grass fire which was put out by city firemen.

Slaughter House Burns—The Gafner slaughter house at Soo Mill, owned by Charles Gafner of Escanaba, was destroyed by fire at 10 p. m. yesterday. Escanaba firemen reported. The loss was insured. Cause of the fire was not determined. Conservation department fire fighters extinguished a grass fire started by the blaze.

Stonington Supper—A pancake supper and parcel post sale will be held in the basement of Trinity Church in Stonington Thursday, Nov. 6, under the sponsorship of the Ladies' Aid Society. Service will be from 6 to 9 p. m. with the fee, a free will offering. The public is invited. Those who have donations for the sale are asked to take them to the church that evening.

Error Corrected—A typographical error was carried in the story in Monday's edition on William Thennis wherein Judge Jackson stated his opinion in granting a dismissal of the charges against the young man. The fourth from the last paragraph should read: "Thennis may have had knowledge later of what was going on but under the law of Michigan mere knowledge does NOT make a person guilty of the offense being committed."

Traffic Accident—It was R. W. Ruchhoff, 38, Green Bay, who was ticketed for excessive speed and failure to stop within the assured clear distance ahead in a traffic accident Friday in Harris Township. The report of the accident in the Press erroneously reported that the driver of the truck which had been struck, John J. Heineck, Stephenson, was injured and was ticketed for the traffic violations. Heineck was uninjured but Ruchhoff sustained a shoulder separation in the accident.

GOING HOME—Boarding a Cornell township school bus after a day at school in Escanaba are David and Arlene Woodard of Cornell. Like many other rural students coming to school here, they assist with farm work before and after school. They leave home at 7:30 a. m., and return about 4 p. m. Both are active in 4-H club work in addition to their regular farm chores. (Daily Press Photo)

Many Farm Children Go To School Here

A memory of yesteryear in Delta County could be conjured by many older Escanabans who might chat with rural students who daily come to school here by bus, and who also help out with farm work.

Most of the bus students live on farms, and do chores before and after classes at school. Homework comes after the farm chores are done and supper is cleared away.

Figures from Supt. John A. Lemmer's office reveal that 262 youngsters from rural school districts come to Escanaba Senior and Junior High Schools.

Many Are 4-H's
Today they are far outnumbered by students from the city of Escanaba, who total 1,057 in the two high schools. Yet a century ago, more students lived on farms than within the city. Whether they went to high school in such large numbers is another question.

Farming today is more mechanized, scientific and on a larger scale, but cows still have to be milked, stock fed, wood chopped and meals cooked. In these activities many rural students participate daily.

Today, many of them combine their work on the farm with 4-H club projects and not only win honors and prizes, but also make money by raising stock and cultivating crops.

Help With Harvest
Representative of these rural youngsters are David and Arlene Woodard, children of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Woodard of Cornell. Dave, who is a ninth grader at JHS here, and Arlene, a junior at EHS, both have cows and calves of their own and have won 4-H prizes at the U. P. State Fair.

In addition to their 4-H work, they and their brother, Bill, an EHS graduate who plans to attend Michigan State College next winter, this year helped their father harvest 4,000 bushels of potatoes, till 145 acres of farmland for hay and grains and care for a herd of 50 Holstein cows and young stock.

Arlene, who her father says is the "best tractor driver", and David, who has fun riding his Holstein purebred to and from pasture, also help their mother, who

Drama Series Opens Nov. 20

Three outstanding comedies, including "The Fledermaus", a streamlined musical comedy version of the operetta that has been a boxoffice sensation of the Metropolitan Opera House since 1949, will be presented in Escanaba this season by the Civic Drama Guild of New York under the sponsorship of the Escanaba Lions Club.

"The Fledermaus" will be presented Nov. 20. The other two plays in the series are "Jenny Kissed Me", Jan. 29, and "Glad Tidings", April 9.

Johann Strauss' most entrancing score is embodied in "Fledermaus", tunes that will forever be remembered and that have already taken their place among the classics. In addition to the songs and dances, "Fledermaus" has an hilarious musical comedy theme.

All of the plays in the series this year are comedies, always popular with Escanaba theater fans. In previous years one of the three plays each season in the series was a heavier drama but the Guild selected all comedies for the 1952-53 season.

All of the plays will be presented with professional casts and professional settings.

Season tickets for their series will go on sale this week and can be purchased at Gust Asps or from any member of the Escanaba Lions Club. All season tickets are reserved.

All of the plays have been proven box office attractions on Broadway.

Boyle Reappointed To Welfare Board

William Boyle, Bark River, has been reappointed to a three year term as state member of the Delta County Board of Social Welfare, it has been announced.

The new appointment was effective Nov. 1. He recently completed his first three-year term as a state member of the welfare board.

of students in schools outside the district, at the maximum rate of $50 for each elementary student, and $75 for each high school student. If costs for education of students in schools outside the district exceed the maximum, rural school boards use local funds to pay the difference.

Transportation costs also are reimbursed by the state, at a maximum per child of $80 per school year.

All townships in Delta County have transportation costs below the maximum paid by the state, with exception of Cornell township, where school buses operate on several "dead-end" roads.

County Supt. Hagle Quarnstrom has reported.

Election Campaign Is Over; Now We Can Return To Peaceful Life

THE election campaign is over. In a few more hours the votes will be tabulated and the results announced. There will be a number of happy candidates—an equal number of disappointed candidates.

But regardless of the outcome of the election, Americans in general can be happy that the furore and the heat of a long and bitter election campaign has finally come to an end.

Never before in the history of the nation has an election campaign been fought so vigorously and so bitterly as this one has been. It started out mildly enough but as the election day drew nearer, the campaign became hotter. The candidates took the gloves off, aided and abetted by their party leaders.

Many 'Veeps' Fail To Measure Up

EVERYBODY knows that if a President dies, the vice president takes his place and serves out the remainder of his term. Yet for long years we Americans have done nothing to assure that we get vice presidents fit to assume the highest executive responsibilities in the world.

The tribal customs of American politics have decreed for decades that the two parties choose vice-presidential nominees for their salability as partners on the national ticket—not on account of fitness for the job they might inherit.

Almost inevitably, therefore, they are selected with a view to providing geographic balance, or appeasing a defeated wing of the party, or attracting special segments of voters.

Understandably, this process does not always give us vice-presidential choices of real caliber. There are notable exceptions. Gov. Earl Warren of California, the 1948 GOP selection, is plainly an executive of genuine stature. No one needs to be reminded, either, of Theodore Roosevelt.

But few would pretend that either Senator Nixon, the 1952 Republican choice, or Senator Sparkman, his Democratic counterpart, measures up to the presidency.

Not much hope is held out for changing the customs that surround the vice-presidential nomination. It seems too much to ask a convention to choose, in effect, two presidential nominees at one sitting. Delegates have no inclination to see their task in that light.

About all that can be done to meet the problem, then, is to find some way of limiting a vice president's hold on the presidency should he succeed to it. Some political analysts recently have proposed that he occupy the White House only until the next general election—at the most around two years.

If a senator dies, the appointee who takes his place serves only until that time, often less. Now and then a special election is held at the earliest opportunity. And yet a governor filling such a spot has full chance to pick a qualified individual.

Why, therefore, should a nation have to accept as President for perhaps four years a man whose qualifications were not seriously considered in convention and surely were never passed on by the voters? The electorate obviously votes for the head of the ticket, not the second man.

It would seem the highest good sense to give the American people the chance to pick a new President as quickly as possible after the one they last approved has passed from the scene.

UNCLE EF

The last railroad grade crossing in the county has been replaced by a bridge. Car drivers have found other ways of killing themselves, though, that are just fatal.

The Doctor Says... Poor Posture, Overweight Contribute to Osteoarthritis

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

Too many people become unnecessarily alarmed when they are told that they have osteoarthritis because they fear serious pain or crippling. Actually, this condition—also called hypertrophic or degenerative arthritis—really should not be called arthritis at all. It is a mild degeneration or wearing out of some of the structures which make up the joints.

Exactly what causes osteoarthritis is not entirely understood. There may be an inherited factor; that is, the cartilage and bone of persons in some families may be particularly susceptible to early degeneration.

Repeated injury also seems to promote the development of this condition. Poor posture, disturbances of blood circulation, and overweight are other conditions which contribute to its development.

The end joints of the fingers frequently become enlarged. This is often accompanied by a certain amount of stiffness and soreness, though this usually disappears after the joints have been loosened up. These enlargements are common in later years and are called Heberden's nodes.

Other joints commonly involved are the knees, shoulders, elbows and spine. Sometimes degeneration may be pretty well advanced without producing any noticeable pain or stiffness. Osteoarthritis is often found accidentally when an X-ray film is taken for something else.

In all probability the campaign would have been a high level affair, except for the intercession of President Truman whose campaign tactics have always been rough.

It will be pleasant to resume the happy ways of the pre-campaign months, when a fellow could pick up a newspaper or listen to the radio without being overwhelmed with campaign oratory.

It was an interesting campaign, to be sure, but, honestly, aren't you glad it's over?

United Nations—Not A Red Cloak

AMERICAN officials are asking the United Nations to give Secretary-General Trygve Lie power to discharge any and all U. S. Communists found on the UN staff.

This is a wise move. Obviously, once such persons have been employed, the U. S. government cannot intervene to direct their outer. It is a UN matter. All we can do is help equip Lie with the requisite authority to keep his organization free of Red taint.

Lie already has shown his full intent to achieve that goal. A short time ago 12 U. S. nationals employed by the UN declined to tell a Senate subcommittee on internal security whether they were or had ever been Communists. One was dismissed and the other 11 suspended by the secretary-general.

The State Department also says it now has an informal agreement with Lie not to employ any additional U. S. citizens who are or were Communists.

All this is to the good. The UN was not intended to provide a vast cloak for the subversive operations of Moscow-directed Communists. America is proud to have the organizations' permanent headquarters in its midst. But it would not like to think it must stand helplessly aside while that agency provides protective shelter for people dedicated to the overthrow of this country and all the free world.

You Still Have Time To Cast Your Vote

HAVE you voted yet? The election polls remain open until eight o'clock this evening and you still have time to get to the polls and cast your ballot.

Remember if you don't vote, you don't count. If all eligible voters go to the polls, the election results will certainly be the people's majority desires. But if only a portion of the eligible voters actually cast their ballots, it could easily mean victory for candidates who may not be the favorite of the majority of the people.

Democracy needs conscientious citizens. No person who does not vote can qualify as a conscientious citizen. Make America strong by making democracy strong. And that means: Vote!

Perhaps you were busy today and forgot to vote. O. K., you still have time so hurry to the polls and vote.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—As one of the hottest presidential campaigns in years comes to a close, here is the confidential survey prepared for General Eisenhower, Governor Dewey, and the top echelon of the Republican party. It shows the Republicans confident of winning 213 "certain" electoral votes, plus 128 "probable" votes, or a total of 341. It requires 266 to win.

The GOP survey puts the two key states of New York and California in the "probable" column, though the Democrats claim they will carry both. Illinois, Stevenson's home state, is placed in the "certain" GOP column, while Massachusetts is placed in the "possible" column.

The border states of Kentucky, West Virginia and Oklahoma are conceded to the Democrats, according to the secret GOP survey, though Maryland is chalked up as "certain" for the Republicans. Another border state, Tennessee, is marked "not too hopeful" though Missouri, home state of President Truman, is listed as "probable" for the GOP.

Texas, on the other hand, where Ike spent so much time and effort, is conceded to the Democrats. Michigan, though considered "probable," is listed as "slipped during past week," while Minnesota, also listed as "probable," carries the notation "removed from sure column because of effectiveness of Democratic speaking campaigns in Minnesota." Truman, Kefauver and Sparkman, besides Stevenson, have toured Minnesota recently.

Massachusetts is marked with the notation: "Even if Lodge is beaten, it's hoped Ike will run enough ahead of ticket to win." This refers to Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., who has a tough race against Congressman Jack Kennedy, who is generally predicted the winner.

New York is tabbed: "expect to win if upstate organizations get the vote out."

STATE-BY-STATE SURVEY

The GOP survey has been gathered from local state leaders and members of the General's party aboard his train. Here is the breakdown state-by-state:

Conceded to the Democrats—Alabama 11 electoral votes; Arkansas 8; Georgia 12; Kentucky 10; Louisiana 10; Mississippi 8; North Carolina 14; Oklahoma 8; Rhode Island 4; South Carolina 8; Texas 24; West Virginia 8; total 125.

Certain for the Republicans—Colorado 6; Connecticut 8; Delaware 3; Idaho 4; Illinois 27; Indiana 13; Iowa 10; Kansas 8; Maine 5; Maryland 9; Nebraska 6; New Hampshire 4; New Jersey 16; North Dakota 4; Ohio 25; Oregon 6; Pennsylvania 32; South Dakota 4; Utah 4; Vermont 3; Wisconsin 12; Wyoming 3; total 212.

Probable for the Republicans—California 32; Michigan 20; Minnesota 11; Missouri 13; Montana 4; Nevada 3; New York 45; total 128.

Possible for the Republicans—Arizona 4; Florida 10; Massachusetts 16; New Mexico 4; Tennessee 11; Virginia 12 (considered even money); Washington 9; total 66.

TRUMAN AND JOHN L. LEWIS

While President Truman was escorting his new-found friend, John L. Lewis, on a personal tour of the White House the other night, he let drop the following:

"Did you realize, John, that if the Republicans should be elected and Taft should die, Eisenhower would be President?"

Harry Moses, representing the coal operators, who was with the two men, did not join in the ensuing laughter.

Mr. Truman's wisecrack followed a relatively brief but extremely important conference, the results of which are the subject of further negotiations probably resulting in an increase in the eventual cost of coal.

Those who attended the White House meeting insist that there was no deal between Truman and Lewis to increase wages. Harry Moses of the operators was with them throughout. As far as can be ascertained, here is a play-by-play account of what happened.

David Cole, the federal mediator, opened the meeting with a plea that the Wage Stabilization Board, which ruled against the $1.90 wage increase, had overlooked certain facts and had been unfair to the miners.

Cole pointed out that the miners worked only 200 days a year, had no fringe benefits such as paid holidays or paid vacation and finally that they had greatly increased production. The Bureau of Labor statistics, he pointed out, showed that production had been increased 14 per cent in two years, that the industry was at its highest peak, and that this was a tribute to John L. Lewis and the operators for pushing mechanization.

Cole also dwelt upon the hazards of mining and the heavy accident rate in the mines.

Into The Past

10 YEARS AGO

Escanaba—The Delta County draft board will meet this afternoon to review the list of men selected for induction in the November call in the light of the directive issued by the state headquarters for deferment of men essential to dairy, livestock or poultry farms.

Escanaba—Napoleon Bernier, 82, resident of Escanaba and vicinity for over 60 years, died at 1 o'clock Tuesday as he was being taken to St. Francis hospital by ambulance. He had been in failing health since March.

20 YEARS AGO

Escanaba—Carl J. Sawyer, Escanaba mayor, urges residents of the city to vote yes on the proposal to bond the county for $60,000 to sponsor road projects and relieve unemployment.

Escanaba—City Clerk Carl E. Anderson reports that a total of 42 applications for absent voters ballots were received prior to the election.

Gladstone—One thousand eight hundred cords of wood have been received for distribution to the jobless of this city.

There are too many clubs for the good of the home, says a judge. What's needed is more hearts.

Maybe some candidates straddle issues to keep their knees from knocking.

We're all praying that winter is just around the same corner as lower prices.

Concluded Tomorrow

U. S. School Kids Are 'Pin-Ups' To Homeless Children Of Korea

SEOUL, Korea —(NEA)— At Anyang Reformatory, 22 teen-aged boys sleep in a single room on blankets on the floor of one of the two stucco cottages.

The only ornament is a picture of a high school graduating class, cut out of a U. S. newspaper—a group of smiling, clean-cut American boys and girls who never knew the degradation of Korea at war.

The reformatory boys themselves put the picture up. They want to be like that when they graduate.

Until now, they have had little chance. Thievery comes as naturally to the homeless boys of Korea as the will to live, for it is part of the struggle to live.

Pilfering Army goods, pandering for prostitutes, stealing from other Koreans who cannot afford to lose the little they have, all are ways of eating in a country where the orphanages are full and there are no breadlines.

The number of homeless children in South Korea is estimated at about 50,000. Actually nobody knows, for nobody has counted them. Few of them in Seoul are eligible for relief because they have entered this closed city illegally. Most of them have fled from hunger in refugee areas.

You see them everywhere. There are so many shoe-shine boys in Korea that they split the trade, two boys each shining one boot for a soldier. Then the soldier is apt to find himself surrounded by a half-dozen youngsters all wanting to get paid for the job.

The boys travel in gangs. Otherwise whatever a boy got his hands on would be taken from him by the gang. Getting caught at stealing is one way of getting fed for a few days. Then what? Most are released to do it again or go hungry.

After more than 15 months of relative stability on the fighting front, only isolated efforts are being made to save uprooted youth from complete degradation.

In Seoul, where facilities are more adequate than elsewhere because the population is limited, an effort was made to round up all boys under 14 and put them in orphanages. Many of them would not stay.

These are boys under 15. Boys over 14 in Korea are supposed to know how to take care of themselves. When they slip, they are apt to be thrown into jail with hardened criminals.

In Seoul, UNCAK has helped establish a Juvenile Court. Now, with the help of Maj. Stanley S. Slick, UNCAK public safety officer, the Anyang Reformatory has been reopened for the first time since July, 1950, when the superintendent told his boys to scatter as the Communists approached.

Anyang, about 15 miles south-east of Seoul, consists of two stucco cottages with two bare rooms in each. The one thing the boys want most is a pump for the cistern. Without it, they have to carry all their water up the hill.

One boy, 17, told of coming down from North Korea with his family. He and his mother were separated from his father and brother, whom they never saw again. The boy stayed with his mother in a refugee area until hunger drove him to sneak into Seoul. He was caught stealing candy.

Another told a heart-rending tale of his fall from good standing. He described, with great pride, his mother, who ran a boarding house for policemen, and his sister, who was engaged to an American soldier. Unhappily, there was no reason to believe any part of his story. He was listed on the records as an orphan.

A third lad was only 15 but tough.

"I had a job, but they picked me up anyway. They haven't anything on me. I didn't tell them anything," he said.

Kung's job was that of "messenger" for a restaurant. Messengers frequently are used to procure liquor and women. But he was booked on a charge of Communist activity.

"Sometimes they use that when they haven't got anything else against them," Major Slick explained.

Besides working, these boys learn to read and write. They also have an art class. Their subjects are most apt to be helicopters, tanks or guns. But they also draw ox carts and roses.

Their mild mannered superintendent, An Chong Soon, wants most to teach them self-respect, so they can be like the American boys and girls in the reformatory pin-up picture.

THE ORPHANAGES OF KOREA are full these days — full of youngsters like these praying over their dinner bowls. But orphanages are only for those under 14, and there are at least 50,000 homeless youth in South Korea.

Good Evening...

By CLINT DUNATHAN

RACE AGAINST TIME—Early November in most years brings the start of cold weather, slashing storms across the shipping channels of the Upper Great Lakes, and perilous days and nights for men on the ore carriers.

This has been a warm and friendly Autumn, comparatively speaking. Temperatures have been unseasonably high, it has not been necessary to thaw the ore at the docks, and the Great Lakes have been calm most of the time.

But the suddenness of storm on the Lakes is well known. Today's fair weather can become a savage northwester by nightfall. A shift of wind can tumble temperatures by 30 and 40 degrees.

The weather has been favorable so far—but ore dock and boat crews live from day to day, expecting the worst. And it always comes.

MEETING THE CHALLENGE—One of these days the sun will disappear behind clouds that gather in the north. The clouds will have fluffy white edges, indicating the burden of snow they carry. The wind will shift to the north and down out of the Canadian Arctic will come Winter.

To meet the challenge of Winter the ore carriers are operating as fast as their schedules will permit. The red ore, raw material for the smelters that feed the nation's steel industry, must be delivered before Winter's ice and storm close shipping lanes.

There is little time left. Every day, every hour counts.

PERIL OF THE LAKES—History has recorded many shipping disasters on the Great Lakes—usually in the late summer and fall when storms strike.

The first sailing vessel to sink on the Great Lakes was the Griffin, LaSalle's small ship carrying a cargo of valuable furs from Washington Island to Lake Erie, which foundered in an October storm.

Her fate is a matter of legend, for there is no record of the wreckage being discovered afterward anywhere on the Lakes. The vessel disappeared as if the waves had opened to swallow it up—which was probably what happened.

The pilot of the Griffin, a Norwegian named Luc, had sailed the ocean many times. He met his master in a Great Lakes storm.

MODERN COUNTERPART—The mighty storms of the Lakes, with winds reaching velocities of 80 miles an hour; the shattering strength of the waves that batter steel ships to helplessness, is well known.

All of the violent storms do not come from the north, however, as the Armistice Day gale of 1940 proves.

Seventy-mile-an-hour winds roared out of the South, unexpected in their fury. Scores of ships were disabled, beached, and damaged. It was the worst storm in many years.

Losses ran into the millions of dollars. A number of lives were lost. The Great Lakes had again proved the "dumping ground" for swift and violent winds.

WINNING THE BATTLE—Despite the hazards of snow and ice, the men who move the vast tonnage of iron ore (about 90 million tons annually) seldom lose their battle with time.

Dockmen work at a dangerous job in pleasant weather. When snow obscures vision and ice coats the docks it becomes still more hazardous.

On the boats there is the danger of collision, of fire, of wind and sea. They keep the boats running late in the Fall—through November and into early December—before the race against time is won.

Safety precautions are taken so far as it is humanly possible. From that point on it becomes a calculated risk.

This year as in almost every year since this nation dedicated itself to supplying arms to halt Russian aggression, the transportation of iron ore has been of paramount importance. Without ore there would be no steel, and without steel we would lack the sinews of production and preparedness.

Keep this in mind when you hear the rumble of an ore train, the sound of a boat whistle on the bay, and the blink of dock lights through the swirling snow.

Power With Words

By Dr. C. E. Funk

Kansas City, Mo.—"I have observed that editors news reporters, columnist, and writers of upper bracket books almost uniformly use the expression wracked with pain. Is that to be accepted as good usage?"—P. L. D

Answer:—If such a multitude of, presumably, well informed writers use the expression, what can we do but accept it? But have you any idea what they mean? The only verb "to wrack" that is in good usage means "to wreck; to ruin," but this doesn't make sense in the expression. I suspect that they have merely gone astray, as others have before them, and have merely misspelled rack. Rack with pain means torn with pain, as if by being stretched upon a rack.

Waterbury, Conn.—"Can't you do something about the public speakers, on and off the radio, who lazily use that abominable, inexcusable word unquote when they mean that they have reached the end of a quotation?"—R. E. G.

Answer:—No, I don't have that power, nor would I use it if I had, for the newly coined word, unquote, has been so well tested and so generally approved as to be recorded in all recent dictionaries.

F. R. M., Milwaukee, Wisc.—The term putt, used in golf, is pronounced to rhyme with but, hut, and nut. The term was formerly often spelled put, and was then usually pronounced to rhyme with foot.

Peekskill, N. Y.—"How do you pronounce beret, the small cap that some men now affect?"—N. S. F.

Answer:—Speaking personally, I wait until the man who is wearing one indicates his pronunciation, but I prefer buh-RAY. Other accepted pronunciations are BAIR-ay, BAIR-it, BAIR-4, and the French beh-REH.

This Is Tough Day For Ike's Mamie, Awaiting Verdict

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP)—With the cheers of a packed Boston Garden still ringing in her ears, Mamie Eisenhower prepared for one of the hardest ordeals of her life today, waiting to hear the people's voice.

"I hope—no, I know we will win," she said shortly before the two months of campaigning came to an end.

"We have worked so long for these things, and we believe so thoroughly in them, it seems that success must come."

Enjoy Fast Pace
After some 60 days, 50,000 miles, some 200 speeches and seeing and being seen by millions of Americans, Iowa-born Mamie Eisenhower appeared surprisingly rested, poised and apparently was enjoying even the last hectic phases of campaigning.

The trouping potential first lady carried on at a fast, disciplined pace throughout a tightly scheduled day, which started with a two-hour tour of Boston and its suburbs—much of it in an open convertible and in a rain storm.

Without even stopping long enough to change her rain-spattered clothes, she hurried on to a small, informal luncheon for women friends, given by Mrs. Charles P. Howard, Republican national committeewoman from Massachusetts, and only woman adviser on Eisenhower's policy-making council.

Cheered By Crowd
Then, pausing only long enough to change from her favorite gray flannel street dress into a bottle green taffeta afternoon frock, she greeted a ballroom packed with Republican women.

Then followed a short rest period in the Eisenhower suite, after which she followed a long-time family routine by dining quietly—and lightly—with her husband.

After nearly 14,000 men and women jamming the Garden rally sang "Mamie" under the leadership of orchestra leader Fred Waring, Mrs. Eisenhower walked into the platform limelight and with smiles and waves accepted the cheers of the crowd.

Personal

Girl Scouts And Brownies At Nahma For Juliette Low Party

A get-together of all Girl Scouts and Brownie Scouts of the Delta County association which includes Gladstone, Nahma and Escanaba, was held Saturday, Nov. 1, from 2:30 to 4:30 at the Nahma Club House, in celebration of the birthday anniversary of Juliette Gordon Low, founder of Girl Scouts.

This observance is held each year in tribute to Mrs. Low and to give the Girl Scouts and Brownies an opportunity to make a contribution to the total international program through the traditional penny march, proceeds of which are used for international Girl Scouting projects and for the expenses of the organization's Chautauque in Switzerland.

The program opened with presentation of the colors by the Nahma Girl Scouts, the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag by the assembly, the first stanza of "God Bless America" and a song of welcome by Miss Mary Krutina's Troop.

Mrs. Bernard DeHooghe of Gladstone, Juliette Low chairman, gave a short talk. Skits all portraying some phase of Indian life or life were presented by the troops. ## Students Hold Political Rally

Preliminary to voting today on national, state and local candidates by Manistique high school students, a "political" rally was held yesterday in the school auditorium.

School voting today duplicates as closely as possible the procedures used in the general election except that students are marking instruction instead of official ballots.

In the rally yesterday students, representing various candidates for public office, harangued members of the student body on the virtues of their own candidacies and party. Nicholas Babladelis officiated as rally chairman. Following a pledge to the flag led by Helen Babladelis, the following students addressed the assembly:

U. S. Senator—Potter, Helen Hall; Moody, Gail LaBrasseur. Congressman—Brown, Donna Patz; Knox, Robert Bouschor. Governor—Alger, Robert Corson; Williams, Mary E. Giovannini. President—Eisenhower, Robert Nelson; Stevenson, Mary A. Mincoff.

The session closed with students being urged to cast their ballots in today's "mock" election.

Boros Is Named Golfer Of Year

CHICAGO (AP)—The dramatic rise of Julius Boros from obscurity to fame and fortune in one season today earned him professional golf's highest award.

The 32-year-old Hungarian-born swinger was selected "Professional Golfer of the Year" by the Professional Golfers' Association.

He received an overwhelming 314 votes in a poll of PGA members and sportswriters. Runnerup Sam Snead got only 26 votes.

Boros has been a professional only three years. He never won a major golf tournament, professional or amateur, until he captured the National Open title at Dallas, Tex., last June. He parlayed this championship with a number of other purses and emerged golf's leading money winner with a total of more than $37,000.

In 1950, his first year as a pro, he won less than $20,000 and in 1951 only $4,697.

The "Golfer of the Year" award is in its fifth year. Ben Hogan won in 1948, 1950 and 1951. Sam Snead was winner in 1949.

Boxer Bivins Loses Fight, Is Suspended

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—Jimmy Bivins, Cleveland heavyweight today was plagued by a double dose of fistic misfortune.

After learning he had been suspended by the National Boxing Association, Bivins dropped a 10-round decision to Tommy Harrison of Los Angeles, here last night. Harrison weighed 178 1/4 to Bivins' 185 and piled up his winning margin with an accurate left jab and fast footwork.

Bivins' ban was announced in Trenton, N. J. by Abe J. Greene, the N. B. A. commissioner who charged that the Cleveland brawler had failed to fulfill a contract to meet Billy Gilliam of East Orange, N. J. The ruling, however, was not made in time to interfere with Bivins' bout with Harrison.

Gehring High On Tiger Rookie Kuenn

DETROIT (AP)—Harvey Kuenn, $55,000 Wisconsin University bonus kid, will become one of the great infielders of baseball, according to Detroit Tigers General Manager Charley Gehring.

The young Tiger shortstop played the final 19 games of the 1952 season for Detroit, batted an even .300 and fielded .963.

He graduated from Wisconsin U. last June and played only 68 games before joining the Tigers. "Kuenn can hit and hit with power," said Gehring. "He has almost flawless batting style. In 80 times at bat with us, he struck out only once."

Notre Dame, squeezing back in to the top 10 on the bottom rung of the ladder, has a date with fourth-place Oklahoma this week.

One week later the Irish, who ruled the roost in 1943, '46, '47 and '49, meet Michigan State and on Nov. 29 tangle with Southern California, current No. 6 team.

Thus Notre Dame once again will have a lot to say in the naming of college football's No. 1 team of 1952, even if that team isn't Notre Dame.

Michigan State, although polling less first-place votes than Maryland in the eyes of 136 sportswriters and broadcasters in the sixth AP poll, actually increased its point margin from 26 points to 109. It had a total of 1,204 points.

Cardinals And Browns Battle Over Brecheen

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Cardinals and Browns are at each other's throats again — this time over Harry (The Cat) Brecheen — and the issue has gone to Commissioner Fred Frick for settlement.

Fred Saigh, owner of the St. Louis National League club, said last night he has protested the matter on two counts—the local American Leaguers either "tampered" with Brecheen while he still was a Cardinal pitcher or did so after he had an oral agreement to become a Redbird coach, or both.

Signed Last Week

Brecheen, 38, was signed by the Browns last week to pitch in 1953. Saigh said he didn't "want Brecheen back on my club," adding that he did want "our neighbor to quit meddling in our affairs."

Brownie owner Bill Veeck immediately denied the charge saying: "We adhered to the rules and have nothing to worry about."

Saigh contends the Browns couldn't legally talk to Brecheen until Oct. 28. Brecheen said at his home in Ava, Okla., that Marty Marion, the Browns' manager, didn't talk to him until Oct. 22 or later.

Agreed to Coach

To back up the second point of his protest, Saigh said Brecheen had agreed orally, the day waivers were asked on him, to become a Cardinal coach.

Saigh said that constitutes an "acceptance of terms" under league rules and means no other club could talk with Brecheen about a job until Saigh or Brecheen rejected the oral agreement about the coaching job. Brecheen has never turned down the Cardinal offer and still has the contract, Saigh declared.

The two St. Louis club owners have been feuding since Veeck took over the Browns, in July, 1951.

Grid Notes

CHICAGO (AP)—Midwest football briefs.

Wisconsin—Harland Carl's knee injury may keep him on the bench in the Badger homecoming against Northwestern.

Iowa—Quarterback Burt Britzman re-injured his shoulder against Minnesota and is a "very doubtful" starter for the Illinois game.

Ohio State—The 24-21 decision of Northwestern left Tony Curcillo with a sore shoulder, John Hlay with a twisted ankle, Carl Howell with a broken nose and two black eyes and Doug Goodsell with a head injury.

Illinois—Defensive end Cliff Waldbeser is the only questionable starter for Saturday's date with Iowa. He was hurt in the Michigan victory.

Minnesota—A concussion suffered against Iowa will keep guard Dick Anderson, Gopher captain, from playing the rest of the season.

Indiana—End Jerry Anderson is in a Pittsburgh hospital, suffering from polio. The attack occurred Friday as the Hoosiers were enroute to the Panther game.

For the third time in the seven days of the meeting, Shoemaker rode four winners.

The Menominee Maroons, 1952 champions of the Upper Peninsula, rated Coach Joe Milokna of Escanaba as the "coach of the year" when the squad named its all-opponent team last week. "He did the best job of bringing up a team from scratch," a spokesman for the team pointed out. Three Eskymos made the Menominee all-opponent team. Selected were John Peterson, tackle; Bill Peltier, end, and Dick Weycker, fullback.

Paul Gunderman, former Escanaba Eskymo grid star who was the lineman of the Upper Peninsula last season, got a taste of defensive action when the Marquette University freshman team beat the Ripon frosh last week. Gunderman, who has been practicing against the Marquette varsity, played two quarters as a defensive end. He tackled a Ripon runner for a safety and recovered one fumble as the Marquette yearlings won 41-13.

The recent Upper Peninsula Sports Writers Association meeting in Iron Mountain was one of the tamest in many years. There was little disagreement on the team of the year. Menominee was voted in on the first ballot, receiving five of the eight votes. Wakefield got two votes and Iron River one. And Harry Monson of Iron River got the "coach of the year" honor with five votes to two for Roman Yatchak of Wakefield and one for Dick Bonifas of Manistique.

Green Bay West, Escanaba's new football foe next year, captured the Fox River Valley Conference championship for the second straight season by defeating Green Bay East Thursday night by a 21-0 score. A record crowd of 14,047 watched the game in Green Bay City Stadium.

Coach Howie Stiehm of Marinette has guided his Marines to a remarkable record since taking over the reins at that school in 1947. His teams have never been held scoreless and have won 31 against six losses and a tie.

Proof that athletes are not necessarily "thick" when it comes to studying is offered by the Escanaba Eskymo varsity and junior varsity teams. Sixteen players from the two squads have made the honor roll this year. And Coach Dick Bonifas of Manistique tells us that three of his starting backfield men, Warren Wilson, Ray Cummings and Bob McNamara are on the honor roll. Tackle Bob Nelson has almost a straight-A average.

During Thanksgiving week, under the leadership of a sightless promoter and an almost blind ex-wrestling champion, promoters and grapplers throughout the United States will stage some 500 mat shows for the benefit of Leader Dogs for the Blind, a Rochester, Mich., organization which trains dogs and their blind masters to get around without human aid.

Three Backers

The three men behind this movement are Leroy McGuirk, a blind promoter who handles wrestling shows in seven arenas; Ed (Strangler) Lewis, a former great wrestler who is 73 years old and almost sightless; and Paul Knowles, field director for Leader Dogs.

Knowles, blind since birth, travels more than 200,000 miles a year with his dog, Pat. He came here recently to do a little promotion work on the wrestling project, which is expected to raise some $250,000 for his organization.

Knowles reported the wrestlers have promised him to give the fans "the darndest shows they ever saw during that one week."

"The wrestlers are very enthusiastic," he said. "Perhaps they feel the fans have been given too much 'showmanship' and are getting tired of it. They tell me, 'Maybe we can sell it to them all over again.'"

Plan Annual Affair

Knowles, Lewis and McGuirk hope the sale is completed. They want the Leader Dog Week to become an annual affair. "Leader Dogs" needs plenty of money to carry on its operations. It costs about $1,250 to train a dog and his master.

The idea of nation-wide wrestling benefit shows originated with McGuirk. He has arranged for Leader Dogs to get 25 per cent of the gross receipts, less taxes, from each show rather than just a cut in the profits. That way he removed a possible temptation for a promoter to take advantage of the charity angle while making the profits disappear in a flood of manufactured expenses.

Auto Accident

McGuirk lost his sight as the result of an automobile accident two years ago. Lewis, his Oklahoma neighbor, persuaded him to go to Rochester for training with a leader dog. It was during the training period that McGuirk became friendly with Knowles and learned something about the financial problems of the organization.

He and Lewis worked up the idea of a Thanksgiving week program and "sold" it to the National Wrestling Alliance. They've been working for months, traveling around the country, to interest the promoters and fans.

Michigan May Be Heading For Repeat 1951 Football Finish

By JOHN F. MAYHEW

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Michigan today faced the distasteful possibility of a 1951 type finish for its football season. Coach Bennie Oosterbaan's chief job now is to prevent it.

Thus far the Wolverines have matched the 1951 season, taking three Western Conference victories and one defeat after losing their two non-conference starts.

Last year Illinois was the turning point. And a similar stage was set today.

In 1951, Illinois collapsed the Michigan effort with a 7-0 win over the Wolverines, who went on to win only one of the next six games. Michigan lost to Cornell and Northwestern while winning over Ohio State. That finish, plus this year's starting losses of Michigan State and Stanford, gave the Wolverines a 1-6 mark for the span over two seasons.

Tough Ones Left

Illinois has again interrupted Michigan's victory drive. And now comes Cornell. A disorganized Michigan team could lose again to the Easterners. And it would be no trick at all to drop the following games to powerful Purdue and Ohio State.

That would give Michigan a 3-3 conference record, worst since a similar mark in 1937 and an overall mark of 2-6, poorest since a 1-7 record in 1936.

On paper, Michigan has too many weapons to fall apart like that. But the weapons are of no use if the team incentive is gone, as it was last year. It takes a genuine full scale effort to get back on the track after such a decisive and unexpected loss.

Fortunately, Michigan leaves the league to face Cornell. If the Wolverines can get their bearings against Cornell, they stand a chance of a major effort against Purdue the following week.

Purdue Powerful

The prospects are that that Purdue will be one of the stoutest Michigan opponents of the season and Oosterbaan's squad will have to be at its peak for that one.

The Michigan coach will have four days to impress his boys with the importance of reorganizing, and quickly. It should not be difficult to convince the Wolverines they have a tough row ahead.

The Michigan squad reviewed the films of the 22-13 loss to the Illini yesterday. There were praiseworthy elements in it for the Wolverines, but these were overshadowed by the over-all effect of an aroused Illinois team making Michigan look like a band of high school players for the first 30 minutes.

The squad then relegated the

Kentucky To Cancel 1953 21-Game Basketball Slate

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—A stepped up intramural basketball program was mapped today for Kentucky's mammoth Memorial Coliseum, home of the team that was set down yesterday by punitive action of the NCAA Council.

University officials went about the task today of wiping out a schedule of intercollegiate games in keeping with a Council Recommendation.

The ruling body announced in Kansas City that Kentucky had violated subsidization and eligibility rules dating back to 1947 and that other schools should not play the university during a period of probation.

Had Top Teams

Kentucky officials said the school will cancel a schedule that called for games with many of the country's leading teams. Many were scheduled to replace Southeastern Conference teams after the conference suspended Kentucky for one year.

Thus Kentucky, which has produced some of the all-time great collegiate basketball teams and has boasted it is the seat of championship basketball, will have no intercollegiate program this winter.

The school said it would accept the decision without appeal. It added, however, it felt the punishment was harsh.

... It is the opinion of our Athletics Board that the penalty inflicted upon the University of Kentucky is unduly severe and far more harsh than any penalty that has ever been inflicted upon a member for violation of the NCAA rules in the past." University president H. L. Donovan wrote to President H. C. Willett of the NCAA.

The probationary action was the third major blow to Kentucky cage fortunes in the last year.

First, some of its former players were involved in the collegiate basketball fix scandal.

Next, the Southeastern Conference, of which Kentucky was a charter member, suspended the university from basketball competition this season because of the scandal.

The NCAA Council had cited violation of these rules by Kentucky.

1. Athletics received pay for participation in athletics in violation of a constitutional principle.

2. Athletics were certified as eligible for NCAA events when ineligible and the coaches involved had knowledge of the facts which made them ineligible, in violation of a provision of the by laws.

Five specific incidents were cited involving gifts of money to players ranging from $25 to $50, and in some cases by sports enthusiasts not connected with the university.

end Paul Dekker, was intercepted by Purdue.

Jim Ellis, MSC safety specialist, was another hard luck kid. Ellis went the distance of the field with a punt runback in the third period but officials ruled he stepped out of bounds along the way and called back the touchdown.

Illegal Lateral

Dekker and end Doug Bobo collaborated in another play that looked for a while like a touchdown. Dekker caught a long pass from Tom Yewic and lateraled to Bobo, who was in the clear. Again officials termed it illegal.

Gene Lekenta, the Grand Rapids kicker, missed a field goal try to join the ranks of the players thinking today of what might have been.

Besides those suffering from injuries requiring hospitalization, a number of other squad members were nursing painful bumps and bruises.

Coaches planned only light workouts this week to rest the players before they have to leave on another road trip to Indiana Thursday.

Girard And Walker Rate Even, For Job

By MARRY STAPLER

DETROIT (AP)—Today is election day. And that brings up the following subject: which Detroit Lion left halfback are you going to vote for?

Even Coach Buddy Parker isn't sure which way he'll vote come Sunday, when he has to decide which of two fellows will start the game with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Right now it looks like Buddy will vote a split ballot—half for Doak Walker and half for Jug Girard.

In other words, it won't matter much who starts—they'll each play about half the time.

This means Girard has come a long way since the Lions acquired the former Wisconsin and Green Bay Packer star just prior to this season.

He was acquired as a fill-in for Walker. And when Walker was injured in the second game of the season Girard took over.

He has sparkled since then. But there's no truth to the story that Walker will have a hard time winning his job back. Parker thinks both of them are too good to sit on the bench.

Comparatively this is how they stand in rushing:

	Carries	Net Gain	Avg.
Walker	12	47	3.9
Girard	34	108	3.0

And in pass receiving:

	Caught	Yards	TD Pss.
Walker	5	30	0
Girard	12	211	2

"Walker needs a whole week of running before he'll really be in shape to play," said Parker. Doak has been idle since the second game and didn't fully recover until late last week.

Harder Is Hurt

In view of fullback Pat Harder's injured neck which may sideline him Sunday, some backfield switches may be necessary.

Parker admitted that Girard might be used at right halfback with right half Bob Moershe-meyer moving to fullback.

"But we haven't talked seriously about that as yet," he said as he prepared to review the movies of Sunday's pleasing 17-6 victory over the Cleveland Browns. As a result of the victory, the Lions now trail the San Francisco 49ers by only one game in the western division of the National Football League.

Whale-Hooking Story Cut Down To Size

EASTBOURNE, England (U)—One fish story—about the man who flung a boat anchor into the sea and hooked a two-ton whale—has been cut down to size.

First, an expert from the British Museum came along and said the monster Vivian Gell and his friends dragged in wasn't a whale at all. It was a 14-foot basking shark.

Then, before Gell could collect 10 pounds ($28) that an animal dealer offered for the catch, hundreds of sightseers hacked the fish to pieces yesterday and carried it away for dog and cat food.

EHS Officials To Visit NMCE

Three Escanaba school officials Friday will attend meetings in Marquette, to visit EHS freshmen there and to discuss college agreement problems.

Principal E. E. Edick of Escanaba Senior High School, George Rutwisch, assistant superintendent and principal, and Allan Mathison, director of the Veterans Institute will attend.

Assistant Supt. Rutwisch will meet with 13 Escanaba students who are in their freshman year at Northern Michigan College of Education Friday morning. A total of 42 former EHS students now are enrolled at NMCE.

Curriculum Adjustments
Allan Mathison, who is making a study, the first of its kind, on the college agreement plan, will give a report at the meeting of U. P. college agreement school officials.

Michigan is the only state using the college agreement plan, which places emphasis on a high school program which meets the needs of students in a community, rather than on programs based on plans formulated by college and university officials as requirements for admission.

Under the plan, schools are free to make curriculum adjustments, in accordance with certain general principles, and still have their graduates accepted in colleges and universities without examinations. This does not apply to graduates of accredited Michigan high schools who attend institutions outside the state of Michigan.

Downstate Students
The college agreement meeting in Marquette will center on problems in the program and ways to meet them.

The meeting with freshmen EHS students at NMCE has a two-fold purpose. It provides additional guidance for freshmen at college and enables school officials to evaluate their own school programs.

Later this month, Principal Edward Edick will meet with students at Michigan State College and the University of Michigan.

Democrats Hold Numerical Edge To Run Congress

the Hoover administration, riding into power on a wave of discontent over meat shortages and postwar economic controls, but they lost it two years later.

For senators swept into office on the Republican upsurge six years ago—the famous “Class of ‘46.” Today’s balloting brought a first test of voter reaction to their records.

Republicans in this group include McCarthy of Wisconsin, Jenner of Indiana, Cain of Washington, Kern of Missouri, Malone of Nevada, Ecton of Montana, Bricker of Ohio, Watkins of Utah, Martin of Pennsylvania and Williams of Delaware.

The Democrats went into the election with a carryover of 35 seats and, in addition, five Democratic candidates had little or no opposition.

These five are Sens. Spessard L. Holland of Florida, John C. Stennis of Mississippi and Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, and Rep. Albert Gore of Tennessee and Price Daniel of Texas.

To these 40 seats they needed to add at least nine more, and they figured they definitely had the upper hand in Rhode Island, Kentucky, West Virginia and Arizona.

The Republicans started off with a lineup of 25 seats, again excluding Morse, and to these could be added Payne of Maine and Knowland of California.

Republicans also were regarded as certain victors in Vermont and North Dakota and in Nebraska, where two GOP-held seats are at stake.

This leaves 20 key contests to be fought out.

Fifteen of the 20 seats involved in races in 19 states now are held by Republicans. Barring a major upset elsewhere, the Republicans must hold all 15 of these seats and win three of the five others to clinch control of the Senate.

Township, which embraces Libertyville and Half Day. In the township's primary election, 701 voters were listed as Republicans and 201 as Democrats.

After the reception, he was to fly to his Springfield headquarters and wait out the decision of the people.

Stevenson's appeal to the people to believe and trust in each other—and his call for sportsmanship in supporting the winner—were dropped in his first program last night when time ran out before he completed his talk.

Kiwanis Speaker Says Michigan Is An Amazing State

Some of the assets that make Michigan a great state were summed up for Escanaba Kiwanis club members Monday in an address by Charles Burton of Gladstone on “Michigan, My Michigan.”

Among other things, Burton pointed out that Michigan has the longest shoreline of any state, that the Detroit river is the world's busiest waterway, and that Michigan has enough salt to last the whole world for 1,000 years.

On the tourist and recreation side, the speaker called attention to the wealth of lakes, public parks, and huge hunting and fishing areas. It is estimated that Michigan now has a deer population of a million, with 400,000 in the Upper Peninsula alone.

In addition to its forests, lakes and assets to attract tourists and recreationists, two minerals, copper and iron, play a big part in Michigan's prosperity. The Upper Peninsula has been producing copper since 1845 and iron for the last 100 years. Huge areas are still untouched where additional masses of iron and copper are known to exist.

As a concluding item in his commentary on Michigan, Burton mentioned the present prospects for linking the two Michigan peninsulas with a $96,000,000 bridge across the Straits of Mackinac. Plans call for a middle span suspension of 3,800 feet and 1,500-foot suspension spans on each side, the remainder to be girder type. Water where footings will be placed ranges more than 300 feet deep.

The speaker was introduced by Brit Hall, program chairman for the day.

Life Of St. Francis And His Third Order Will Be Topic Here

An explanation of the Third Order of St. Francis will be given Wednesday at 8 p. m. in St. Joseph parish hall, it was announced today by Father Colman Higdon, O. F. M., local director.

The talk will begin with a sketch of the life of St. Francis, his main contribution to the history of the church, and how he came to found his Third Order for lay people. It will cover briefly the requirements for admission, and the benefits of membership. Literature giving a fuller explanation will be available, and a question-and-answer period will follow.

The Third Order provides for a year of try-out before permanent membership. Opportunity to arrange for such admission will be accorded Wednesday evening. Admission is open to Catholics of both sexes and all age groups, with minimum age limit at 14. Any Catholic interested in learning more about the Third Order is welcome to attend the meeting.

Iron Lung Maker Dies At Marquette
MARQUETTE (AP)—M. K. Reynolds, 67, whose home-made “iron lungs” were credited with saving lives in the 1940 polio epidemic, died here Monday of heart disease.

An engineering graduate of Princeton University, Reynolds designed and built at a cost of a few dollars several emergency respirators shortly after the outbreak of the 1940 polio epidemic in Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

Iron lungs were scarce and costly in those days. For his home-made ones, Reynolds used oil drums and vacuum cleaner motors. His plans for the device were given nation-wide publicity and were built in many other parts of the country.

A member of one of Marquette's most prominent families, Reynolds was a yachting enthusiast. He was serving his second term on the Marquette County Commission and had been a director of the Union National Bank since 1928.

Dairy Bar Robbed

REED CITY (AP)—Police were searching today for a middle-aged man who robbed the Reed City dairy bar of $50 yesterday. The man ate and paid for a lunch, then ordered the waitress to hand over the money in the cash register.

Outcome Is Hazy As Nation Picks 33rd President

side” in the making.

But it was apparent that the confidence in both camps was only skin deep—and a sensitive skin at that. While expecting a relatively close popular vote, most politicians thought anything could happen in the Electoral College contest which decides the winner.

Key States May Swing

A group of key states, including the three largest, New York, Illinois and California, apparently could swing the election either way. Besides the Big Three, which have 104 electoral votes, party strategists looked for a trend in Connecticut, eight votes; Massachusetts, 16; Michigan, 20; Ohio, 25; Pennsylvania, 32, and Virginia, 12.

A definite trend for one candidate in these states would presage a landslide victory for him, in electoral votes, at least.

Such a trend also could affect the vital control of Congress needed by a new president to carry out his program. All 435 members of the House are being elected this year and 35 senators are being chosen. In state races, 29 governors are being selected. Maine already has elected a GOP governor, senator and three House members.

Hold Edge In Senate

Although control of the House is expected to follow the presidential results, Democrats' apparent have an edge in Senate contests which could keep them in command of that body if Eisenhower should win a close popular vote battle.

At the campaign's close Eisenhower was defending his proposal for a Korean visit from fresh Democratic attacks, this time launched by Vice President Barkley. In St. Louis, old warrior Barkley declared that Eisenhower had “held out the false hope that there is some quick and easy way out of Korea.”

In a television broadcast aimed at women voters, who now outnumber men, Eisenhower said he was “not pretending there is any patent medicine way of solving the problem in Korea.” He said he was going there, if elected, to get information and “not to boss.”

Stevenson, who flew from his campaign train to Chester, Ill., last week to settle a prison riot, made no public attempt to cash in on that most dramatic episode of his campaign.

Climax For Harry

The secondary figures in the campaign—some of whom have pushed their way to the front of the stage at times—got in their final blows.

President Truman was ready to vote in his home town of Independence, Mo., after having praised as “on the right track” predictions of some of his former aides that the Democrats will win. For Truman, his 18,000-mile whistle-stop touring brought to a spectacular climax his long political career. He remains president until his successor is sworn in next Jan. 20.

Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin, stormy center of the Communists-in-government battle, was engaged in bitter argument with the Democratic National Committee over a recent campaign speech. McCarthy told voters in a radio speech last night it was up to them “either to get rid of Communists and fellow travelers or vote more of them into positions of power.”

Unions Go Democrat
Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, to whom Stevenson said Eisenhower had “surrendered,” predicted a Republican victory—which would make Taft about the biggest man in Congress.

Nixon and Sparkman joined their principals in final radio-television broadcasts.

As the campaign ended politicians and pollsters were puzzled about where the “undecided” or silent vote would go. It seemed likely to be decisive in many states which could swing the election.

Stevenson apparently had a solid backlog of labor union support, more united than ever before, along with indications that he would get a large majority of the Negro vote that might be crucial in some states.

Dixie Likes Ike
Stevenson also was regarded as likely to get the support of many federal workers.

On the other hand, Eisenhower appeared to have cut into the usually Democratic South. The general was given a good chance by local politicians to carry Virginia and a lesser chance to pick up other states south of the Mason Dixon Line, where Stevenson was certain to pile up a substantial block of electoral votes.

Eisenhower was believed to have scooped up most of the agricultural Midwest, where President Truman won his surprising 1948 victory.

Falling Clock Hits Eisenhower On Head

BOSTON (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower suffered a slight cut and a swelling on his head early today when he was struck by a clock which fell from a temporary stand.

The Republican nominee was posing for pictures in a television studio shortly before leaving for New York when the timepiece fell on his right temple.

He finished posing for the press photographers before a small piece of adhesive was placed on the wound.

Eisenhower Regards Peace As Top Goal

etly optimistic—anything but worried.

They are counting mainly on two tides—vast, powerful tides, they say—sweeping through all the crosscurrents of sentiment in the United States today.

One is Eisenhower's personal popularity. It appears to be immense.

Demand For Change

The other is, in their view, the towering popular demand for a change of administration.

Proceeding from these assumptions, they go on to assert that Eisenhower will command, by far, the majority of the women's votes. And they say the heavy registration all over the country is, in large part, a new army of women voters.

The “time-for-a-change” feeling that they claim is so widespread will bring over to Eisenhower the support of most of the estimated 15 million unaffiliated voters, his campaign managers believe.

Eisenhower went through a work-horse schedule on the last day.

He motorcaded through the suburbs of Boston in the morning, then rehearsed two hours for his television show, appeared on a program boosting Rep. Christian Herter's campaign for election as governor of Massachusetts, delivered a major speech in the Boston Garden Auditorium and finally appeared on a television show from 11 until midnight.

Taught By Experience
His speech was a kind of credo. He reminisced briefly over the 40 years that lie between the “small white frame house in the little town of Abilene, Kan.,” and the present. He asked what these years taught him.

“I shall tell you simply. They have taught me the meaning of five words. These words are: peace, evil, unity, faith, hope.”

His main objective, he told a frantically enthusiastic 14,000 people in the Garden, is to achieve the peace. “I have dedicated myself to one supreme cause—to strive to keep war from ever again wounding the bodies and scarring the spirit of America's youth.”

He then repeated—and the usual roaring storm of applause greeted the words—“If I am summoned to your service, I shall . . . go to Korea.”

Stevenson Quoted

The speech had a high-level tone, but it whipped a number of sharp-pointed shafts at the Democrats, and at Gov. Adlai Stevenson, the party nominee. He appeared to be aiming at Stevenson when he said:

“What I know I have not learned in academic seminars or diplomatic briefings. I know evil from those years when I shared in the heavy burden of decision in the free world's fight against Nazi tyranny.”

Solution Sought In Korea Debate

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — Asian and Arab delegates to the United Nations meet today to seek a middle-of-the-road course they hope both East and West can accept for ending the Korean War.

The delegates, from nations which generally take a neutral position on most East-West conflicts, hope to bring a solid bloc behind compromise proposals for a Korean settlement.

The General Assembly's Political Committee, which is debating the Korea issue, was in recess for the day—presumably because of the U. S. presidential elections. The committee reconvenes tomorrow.

Formosa Watching Ai Sen How Wei Race

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Chinese Nationalists here are watching excitedly the election race between Sze Ti Wen Sen and Ai Sen How Wei.

If your Chinese is rusty, the candidates names mean “History Brings Literary Life” and “Love Jungle Hero Manliness.” That history-literary guy is Stevenson and the jungle hero is Eisenhower. Or so say the Chinese.

Rotary Club Inducts Three Members

Three new members were inducted into the Escanaba Rotary Club yesterday noon in impressive ceremony at a meeting devoted to the induction and an explanation of the aims and objects of the organization.

The new members are G. C. Stuart, Ed Marenger and Claude Tobin of Escanaba.

Conducting the induction ceremony were Charles Follo, E. E. Edick and John A. Lemmer.

Follo outlined the history and growth of Rotary to the present day, when it comprises clubs in 83 countries under Rotary International; and Edick explained the four major objects of Rotary—fellowship, vocational, community and international service.

Rotarians L. J. Jacobs and Carl J. Sawyer reported on other phases of Rotary rule and experience. Jacobs, membership committee chairman, outlined the functions of his committee, and Sawyer spoke on “What Rotary Has Meant to Me.”

Charles Gessner briefly outlined the proposed amendments to the state constitution and their meaning to the people of Northern Michigan.

Menominee Man Fined $1,000 For Purchase Of Ungraded Beef

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Michael J. Trautner, of Menominee, was fined $1,000 and placed on probation for two years by Federal Judge Raymond W. Starr Monday for purchasing ungraded beef in violation of OPS regulations.

Trautner, doing business as Trautner's Market, had pleaded guilty.

U. S. District Attorney Joseph F. Deeb said Trautner was one of several persons who purchased meat from an unregistered slaughterer in Wisconsin.
